Creekside is Going Vertical

This summer, we saw the culmination of the work below the surface on our first two community spaces, the Community Kitchen and the Individual Centralized Bathrooms. With the pipes and electrical underground work laid, we finally got to see these two spaces rise above the surface. They are on track to be completed this month.

Community accommodations prevent isolation, which is common with individuals new to housing, and enhance living in community, which helps with mental health and substance abuse disorders. These two buildings will draw our residents together, from isolation to community as they share the space for cooking together, shared meals, and conversations that lead to connection.

Housing alone will not end homelessness, but community will and these spaces will help foster that community.

Heroes Fund

In Waco, about 15% of our homeless neighbors are Veterans. Mission Waco has arrived at a clear sense of conviction that Creekside must play a role in alleviating the homelessness of people who have served our country and our community through military service. We are excited to announce that we're committed to dedicating 15% of our homes to these heroes until every veteran in Waco is housed—but we need your help to make this happen. In Phase One, we're looking to fund 5 homes at $50k per home.

Every gift—large or small—helps us build and furnish homes, as well as provide meaningful community amenities. We want to ensure safe, welcoming housing and community for those who served. Stand with us in ensuring every Veteran has a place to belong. Scan the QR code above or visit CreeksideWaco.org to learn more and support this cause.

Meet Jonah

Jonah Fox is our new Chief Village Officer at Creekside Community Village. He comes to this project with a background in pastoral ministry as well as construction and real estate development. This role is something God has been preparing him for over the course of many years. Jonah is a Waco native, and is looking forward to partnering with you in working toward an end to chronic homelessness in McLennan County.

Call for Missionals!

Missional residents are those who have not experienced chronic homelessness themselves but are choosing to live alongside formerly homeless neighbors as a support and encouragement.

Missionals may have jobs, families, may be retired and have commitments outside of Creekside, but also serve the community and commit to making Creekside their primary residence for at least one year.

If you are interested in learning more about this opportunity, e-mail jfox@missionwaco.org for more information.
